THE YOKE

A Romance of the Days When the Lord Redeemed the Children of Israel from the Bondage of Egypt

By Elizabeth Miller

Copyright, 1904, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"Ah, the—! Why does he not marry honorably?"

"It is not for me to divine," Hotep went on calmly. "The fan bearer sent him to take her, but she fled from them to Kenkenes, and he protected her—hid her away—where none but Kenkenes and the maiden knew. Har-hat is most desirous of owning her, but Kenkenes keeps his counsel. Therefore Har-hat overlooked him in Tape, where he went to get a signet belonging to his father, and imprisoned him till what time he should divulge the hiding place of the Israelite."

"Hath he put him to torture yet?"

"Aye, from the beginning, though not by the bastinado. He rends him with suspense, but I have more to tell. There was a signet, an all potent signet, which belonged to the noble Mentu!"

"Aye, I remember," Rameses broke in. "That should help the dreamer out of his difficulty."

"Aye, it should, my prince, but it did not. Kenkenes sent it to the Pharaoh, with a petition for his own freedom, but the cares of state were so pressing that the son of Pthah gave the letter, unopened, to Har-hat for attention."

Rameses laughed harshly.

"Kenkenes would better content himself. The Hathors are against him," he cried. "What more?"

"Is it not enough, O Rameses?" Hotep answered sternly. "He hath suffered sufficiently. Now is it time for them who profess to love him to bestir themselves in his behalf. Thou knowest how near the fan bearer is to the Pharaoh. Persuasion cannot reach the king that worketh against Har-hat. Thou alone art as potent with the son of Pthah. Wilt thou not prove thy love for Kenkenes and aid him?"

Rameses did not answer immediately. Thoughtfully he leaned his elbow on his knee and stroked his forehead with his hand. His black brows knitted finally.

"My hands are tied, Hotep," he began bluntly. "I permit the sway of this knave over my father because I am constrained."

Hotep broke in earnestly.

"Surely so small a matter of courtesy—if such it may be called—should not stand between thee and this most pressing need."

"Aye, thou hast said—if it were only a small matter of courtesy. Thou knowest, O my Hotep, that I am betrothed to the daughter of Har-hat."

Hotep was on his feet by this time, his face turned away. Rameses could not guess what a tempest raged in his heart.

"Be thou assured," the prince continued grudgingly, "that only so long as Masanath is not yet mine shall I endure Har-hat. After that he shall fall as never knave fell or so deserved to fall before. Aye—but stay, Hotep. I have not done. I have some small grain of hope for this unfortunate friend of ours. The marriage hath been delayed. I shall press my suit and wed Masanath sooner, if she will, and Kenkenes need not deen in prison."

Hotep did not stay longer. He bowed and departed without a word.

Rameses immediately hurried to the well of the stairway.

"Hotep!" he called. The scribe, half-way down, turned and looked up.

"Return to me in an hour. Give me time to ponder, and I may more profitably help thee," the prince commanded. Hotep bowed and went on.

The hour was barely long enough for the snarling soul of the scribe to soothe itself. Deep, indeed, his love for Kenkenes that he returned at all. Masanath's name, spoken so familiarly, so soothingly, by the prince was fresh courage to his already affronted heart.

At the end of the hour he went once again to Rameses.

"Thou hast said," the prince began immediately, "that Har-hat hath imprisoned Kenkenes till what time he shall divulge the hiding place of the Israelite?"

Hotep bowed.

"The fan bearer charges him with slave stealing."

"And sacrilege," the scribe added. The prince opened his eyes. "Aye, Kenkenes carried his beauty love into blasphemy. He executed a statue of Athor in defiance of the sculptor's ritual. For this also Har-hat holds a heavy hand over him."

"He deserves his ill luck. Mark me now. He will not go mad with a year's imprisonment, and he will profit by it. Furthermore, he cannot be persuaded into betraying the Israelite if he knows how long and how much he will have to endure. Once sentenced, Har-hat can add nothing more thereto."

Rameses clapped his hands. The attendant that appeared he ordered to bring the scribe's writing case and implements. When the servant returned, Hotep, at a sign from Rameses, prepared to write. "Write thus to the jailer at Tape: By order of the crown prince, Rameses, the prisoner, Kenkenes, held for slave stealing and sacrilege, is sentenced to imprisonment for one year!"

Hotep lifted his pen and looked his rebellion.

"Write!" the prince exclaimed. "I do him a kindness, with a lesson added. Were it in my power to free him I would not till he had learned that the law is inexorable and the power of its ministers supreme. Go on—at such labor as the prisoner may elect. No further punishment may be added thereto. Affix my seal and send this without fail. Thou canst write whatever thou wilt to Kenkenes. For the Israelite I shall not concern myself. The nearer friends to Kenkenes may look to her. Mine shall be the care only to see that they are not harassed by the fan bearer. In this I fulfill the law. Let Har-hat help himself."

He dropped back on his divan, and Hotep slowly collected his writing materials and departed.

Meanwhile Kenkenes seldom saw a human face. Food and water in red clay vessels, bearing the seal of Thebes, were set inside his door by disembodied hands. At intervals he saw the keeper, always attended by the inevitable scribe, but the visit was a matter of inspection, and rarely was the prisoner addressed.

He expected the return of his messenger in twenty days after the man's departure. At the expiration of that time his suspense and apprehension became more and more desperate at the passing of each new day.

Eight days later, about mid-afternoon, while he lay on his pallet, the door was flung open and his messenger stood without. With a cry Kenkenes leaped to his feet and wringed the scroll from the man's hand.

The letter was from Hotep, conveying such information regarding his imprisonment as we already know. Kenkenes read the missive calmly and paid the messenger according to his promise. The jailer, who had come with the mail, read the sentence and bade the prisoner make his choice of labor.

"Anything as it will but give me a glimpse of the horizon," he said. "Thou wilt pay dearly for thy sky," the keeper cautioned him. "The softest labor is within coots."

"Give me my wish according to the command of the prince."

The jailer shrugged his shoulders. "As thou wilt. Make ready to follow the canal workers tomorrow."

CHAPTER XVIII.
THE PLAGUES.

THE court was gone, and Masanath was making the most of each day of her freedom. Memphis was in a state of apathy, worn out by revel and emptied of her luminaries. Ta-meri, intoxicated with the importance of her position as lady in waiting to the queen, had departed with her husband, the cupbearer. To had returned to her home in On with an ache in her brave little heart that outweighed even Masanath's for heaviness. The last of Setti's loverlike behavior toward her dated back to a time before the court had gone to Thebes—long, long ago.

Ta-user also had gone, but the fan bearer's daughter did not regret her. The other ladies who remained in Memphis, frightened at the loftiness of Masanath's future, were uneasy in her presence and seemed more inclined to bend the knee before her than to continue the girlish companionship that had once been between them.

It was now the middle of June, the height of Egyptian summer. In a little space the marshes, which had been for eight months favorite haunts of fowling, would be submerged, for the inundation was not far away.

Masanath would hunt for wild duck and marsh hen while there was yet time.

It was an hour after sunrise. Her raft, built of papyrus, was boat shaped and graceful as a swan. Pepi was at the long handled sweep in the stern. Masanath sat in the middle, which was heaped with nets, throw sticks and bows and arrows. A pair of decoy birds, tame and unfettered, stood near her, craning their small heads, puzzled at the movement of the boat, which was unexplainable, since they were motionless. Nari sat in the prow, her hands folded, her face quite expressionless. The service of the day was out of the routine, but as a good servant she was capable of adapting herself to the change.

"A pest on the boat!" Masanath exclaimed. "Look at the Marsh of the Discontented Soul. It fairly swarms with teal and coot. And see the snipe on the sand!" She stood up and watched the sandy strip they were nearing. They were a goodly distance out from the shore, but Pepi poled nearer mid-stream.

She sat down again and looked at the decoy birds. Their timidity had increased into actual fear. Masanath reached a soothing hand toward one of them, and it took wings and flew. The mate followed, unhesitating. The shining distance swallowed them up.

"Let us leave this vicinity," Pepi said, suiting the action to the word. "It is unwholy." He seized the sweep and drove the raft about, polling with wide strokes. At that moment a cry which was more of a hoarse whisper broke from his lips:

"Body of Ostris! The river! The river!"

Masanath leaned on one hand and looked over the side of the raft. With a bound and a shivering cry, Nari was covering beside her, the little craft tossing on the waves at the force of the leap. Instantly Pepi was at her other side on his knees, praying and shaking. And together the trio huddled, but only one, Masanath, was brave enough to watch what was happening.

From the bottom of the Nile a turbid convection was taking place, as if the river silt had been stirred up, but the turning current was assuming a dull tinge. The action had been rapid. Already the stain had predominated, streaks of clear water only here and there clarifying the opaque coloring. The boat rode half its depth in red; the paddie dripped red; the splashes of water within on the bottom were red; the sun shone broadly into the mirroring red, a sliding, reeking red! A lavender foam broke its bubbles against the drifting raft, and a tepid, invisible vapor, like a moist breath, exhaled from the ensanguined surface.

Schools of fish, struggling and leaping, filled the space immediately above the water and embured the raft with a writhing mass. Numberless crocodiles bounded into the air, braying, snorting, rending one another and churning the river into froth by their hideous battle. Dwellers of the deep water drifted into the upper tide—monsters of the muck at the Nile bottom, turtles, huge crawfish, water newts, spotted snakes, curious bleached creatures that had never seen the day, great drifts of insects, with frogs, tadpoles—everything of aquatic animate life came up dead or dying terribly. Along either bank water buffalo and wallowing swine, which had been in the pools near the river, clambered ponderously, snorting at every step.

Vessels were putting about and flying for the shore. From the prow of one tall boat with distended sails a figure was seen to spring high and disappear under the red torrent. Rioting crews of river men fought for first landing at the accessible places on the banks. Memphis shrieked and the pastures became compounds of wild beasts that deafened heaven with their savage bellowing.

GIVEN TO PUBLIC

Terms of the Protocol of Armistice at Last Made Known.

GIVEN OUT AT LONDON

Through Japanese Legation at British Capital the Terms of the Instrument are Published.

Cessation of Hostilities Will Be Arranged in Accordance With Terms Thus Fixed.

London, Sept. 14.—The protocol of the armistice between Japan and Russia consists of six paragraphs, fixing the zone of demarcation between the two armies in Manchuria as well as in the Tumen region, providing that the naval forces of one of the belligerents shall not bombard territory belonging to or occupied by the other, and setting forth that maritime captures will not be suspended during the armistice. The Japanese legation last evening gave out the text of the armistice protocol as follows:

1. A certain distance as a zone of demarcation shall be fixed between the fronts of the armies of the two powers in Manchuria as well as in the region of Tumen river, Korea.
2. The naval force of one of the belligerents shall not bombard territory belonging to or occupied by the other.
3. Maritime captures will not be suspended by the armistice.
4. During the term of the armistice new reinforcements shall not be dispatched to the theater of war. Those which are already on their way there shall not be dispatched north of Mukden on the part of Japan nor south of Harbin on the part of Russia.
5. The commanders of the armies and fleets of two powers shall determine in common accord the conditions of the armistice in conformity with the provisions above enumerated.
6. The two governments shall order their commanders immediately after the signature of the treaty of peace to put the protocol in execution. The protocol was signed by M. Witte, Baron Rosen, Baron Komura and M. Takahira.

SATISFACTORY CONDITION

Baron Komura's Illness Not Thought to Be Serious.

New York, Sept. 14.—Baron Komura, the Japanese peace envoy, who is reported to be suffering from typhoid fever, although the consulting physicians are not a unit on this point, is said to be in a satisfactory condition. Baron Komura is at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel and his return to Japan has been indefinitely postponed, although most of the members of his suite departed for Seattle today, the date originally planned for the departure of the mission.

The Word at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 14.—Baron Komura has notified Japanese Consul Hizamidsu that he could not leave on the steamship Dakota on Sept. 20, as he is too ill to make the start from

HENRY W. DENISON.

New York in time for the Dakota's sailing. He hopes to come west over the Canadian Pacific, sailing with four other members of his suite on the Empress of Japan Oct. 2. H. W. Denison, the American advisor to the foreign department, Colonel Takihana, military attache, and two secretaries will sail on the Dakota.

A Sample of Boycott Campaign.

Washington, Sept. 14.—The department of commerce and labor has received from a United States consul in China a copy of placards that have been distributed in various provinces to stimulate the boycott against American goods. The placards are about 4 by 1 1/2 feet and are covered with crude drawings showing American policemen clubbing Chinese and hanging them by the queues. Underneath the picture is the statement: "This is the way the Chinese are treated in the United States."

The English oil companies at Baku have been forced to abandon work owing to threats made by the revolutionaries.

NO MORE FOR HIM

Minister Powell Is Through Tempting Fats in Haiti.

Camden, N. J., Sept. 14.—William F. Powell, United States minister to Haiti, who is on leave of absence at his home here, has announced his intention of tendering his resignation to President Roosevelt at once. He gives as his reason for resigning the prevalence of revolutions, riots and fever in Haiti. "I have tempted the fates long enough," he said. In about eight days Mr. Powell will return to his post at Port au Prince to await the appointment and arrival of his successor. Mr. Powell was appointed minister to Haiti about ten years ago by President Harrison.

THE ALBERS CASE

Uncle Sam and a Philadelphia Lawyer Are Now Interested.

Washington, Sept. 14.—After consultation between the state and navy departments it has been decided that a warship shall be sent to one of the Costa Rican ports to convey American Minister Merry, at last accounts in San Jose, northward to the nearest point on the coast of Nicaragua or Honduras to the place where William S. Albers, an American citizen, and his brother are confined pending a trial on the charge of resisting legal process and of insulting the president of Nicaragua. The officials of the state and navy departments decline to make any statement whatever on this subject just now, but it is known that it has received serious attention and that the lack of information as to the exact nature of the offense charged against Albers and the possibility of his not receiving a fair trial have caused an effort to be made to get in closer touch with the prisoner. The gunboat Princeton, now at Panama, is the nearest warship to Ocostal, in the province of Zegovia, where Albers is imprisoned. But the last-named town is seventy miles inland over a rough mountain range from the coast, and the trail is not passable by any vehicle. Anapala, on the Gulf of Fonseca, on the southern boundary of Honduras, appears to be the nearest port to Ocostal. The Port Limon company, whose agent Albers was, has sent a lawyer named Brubaker, of Philadelphia, to Ocostal to assist in his defense.

Yellow Fever Report.

New Orleans, Sept. 14.—Report of yellow fever to 6 p. m., Wednesday: New cases, 43; total, 2,413; deaths, 4; total, 323; new foci, 8; cases under treatment, 303; cases discharged, 1,787.

OTHER SIDE OF IT

Mutual Life Company's Treasurer in Defense of Syndicates.

HIS FRANK STATEMENT

Mr. Cromwell Says the Law of Combination Has Made the Modern Syndicate Necessary.

He Then Explains That His Great Company Can Operate Only Through Such Agencies.

New York, Sept. 14.—A vigorous defense of syndicates and their operations in connection with the insurance business and a frank statement of personal profits gained through their operations made by Frederick Cromwell, treasurer of the Mutual Life Insurance company, was the feature of yesterday's session of the special legislative committee appointed to probe methods of life insurance companies in this state. The defense of the syndicate was made by Mr. Cromwell soon after he was called to the stand. Before he was asked a question he begged leave to say a few words, and upon being directed to proceed, said:

"The law of combination which affects finance as everything else, has made syndicates necessary. When I became treasurer of the Mutual Life Insurance company the total assets of our company were $100,000,000. The transactions in my department now are over $100,000,000 per annum. When our receipts were less—twenty years ago—it was quite possible for us to buy from bond dealers and pay the successive profits, but now it is absolutely impossible to buy advantageously large blocks of securities, except as they are floated by these combinations of capital popularly called syndicates, and we have to go into them to get our investments and get them in sufficient size and at 'ground floor' prices. We could not make our investments without syndicates, and we are partners in every syndicate into which we go. I want to say further that unless we went into these syndicates we would not be able to invest our funds except by buying in small quantities and paying the successive profits of middlemen."

"I ask you, Mr. Hughes and the committee, to consider that we have now over $450,000,000 of assets and while we have over $100,000,000 invested in bond and mortgage, we are constantly under the necessity of finding additional investments for our large accumulation of funds. This is the condition of the market, and the exhibits are before you. Now how we have to employ our investments are such that when Mr. Tamm, I suppose about the most widely known and honored president in his day in New York, died he left it as a condition that his trustees should have one privilege, and that was to invest in the same securities as those of the Mutual Life Insurance company. That is the way we invested our money, but we could not make the transactions of $100,000,000 a year in the securities bought by this company without using syndicates."

The acknowledgment of personal profits was made in a tabulated statement which was presented to the committee after recess. It showed that Mr. Cromwell had made a personal profit of $76,371 from syndicate operations during the last five years in which he individually and the Mutual Life Insurance company had participated.

Mr. Hughes, chief counsel of the committee, immediately took up each item of these syndicate transactions in an effort to ascertain the manner in which these profits were obtained. An interesting point was brought out when probing a transaction in Pennsylvania railroad and 214 conscribibles in which Mr. Cromwell made no personal profit the witness stated: "Of course we are greatly interested in the Pennsylvania railroad. I might say we are the biggest stockholders."

Answering Mr. Hughes, Mr. Cromwell said the holdings of the Mutual Life in the Pennsylvania railroad was $5,000,000. Along these transactions the collection of trust companies with the Mutual Life was brought out when it was stated that the million shares of the subscription to a Japanese loan was shared by the United States Mortgage and Trust company and the Guarantee Trust company.

Purged the V-List.

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—The total number of voters in Philadelphia according to the September canvass is 339,960, a decrease of 2,810 compared with the figures made in May. After Mayor Villanova's removal by the Republican party the mayor and reform organizations had a canvass made of the voters of the city for the purpose of purging the voting lists of all fictitious names. It was charged that between 50,000 and 60,000 fraudulent names were on the list.

Results of the Riots.

Tokio, Sept. 14.—According to the police estimate of casualties during the recent rioting, 36 constables, 16 firemen and two soldiers were wounded. Among the mob and bystanders nine were killed and 427 wounded.

A STRAW

Which Indicates the Way the Political Wind Blows.

Indianapolis, Sept. 14.—As predicted some time ago by our correspondent, the betting on the city election is opening with odds in favor of Bookwalter, the Republican candidate. At one place today 10 to 8 was offered that he will be elected. Tired of waiting for backers of Mayor Holtzman to take even money the Bookwalter men today offered to bet that Bookwalter will have 2,500 majority. Even money is offered that the majority will be that large. Bookwalter's followers say the betting shows the way the wind is blowing, but Mayor Holtzman's friends are recalling that two years ago the odds were three to two against him, yet he defeated Bookwalter. Whether or not the betting is a good indication is a matter of speculation, but the prediction made recently that Bookwalter will be a strong favorite on the boards is being carried out.

The state fair crowd is the largest in the history of the state board of agriculture. The city is jammed full. There has probably been no such crowd here since the national encampment of the G. A. R., several years ago. The interurban roads are a large factor in helping to make the fair a great success, as they are bringing in an army of people. The steam roads seem to be getting their usual share. The interurban traffic bears out the statement made by transportation experts that more people are traveling since the electric lines were built. The attendance at the fair yesterday was above 35,000. It was larger today, but will probably dwindle tomorrow. It looks as if the board will have a nice large "nest-egg" as a result of the big business which will enable it to pay off the debt hanging over the grounds. It is very likely that before the next year rolls around extensive improvements will be made in the grounds. The fair seems to be growing in popularity throughout the entire state, but all county fairs have done a remarkable business.

The controversy continues relative to a location for the Benjamin Harrison monument. Congressman Overstreet says he is not in favor of having the monument in front of the new federal building if the present design is not changed. He says he has not been asked by Secretary Shaw of the treasury department regarding a location, but he believes it should be in front of the federal building if a design is accepted that will conform with it. Senator Beveridge says he has not been consulted and Vice President Fairbanks declares that John B. Elam, president of the monument commission, should do the talking. Mr. Elam, however, refuses to say anything. It is probable that nothing will be done pending a decision from the treasury department. In the meantime the faithful followers of the late president are getting more embarrassed all the time on account of the controversy.

Fred Sims of Frankfort, secretary of the Republican state committee, was one of the state fair visitors today. Although he has no opposition for the nomination of secretary of state, he is hustling for the place about the same as if he did have. Sims was very popular as secretary of the organization and Ninth district committeeman, and party leaders generally feel that he is entitled to the nomination without opposition. Two or three men have figured on entering the race against him, but have given up, as they have found that he is too popular with the powers that be. Jonce Monahan of Orleans, candidate for treasurer, and several other aspirants for places on the Republican state ticket were here today.

Baby Costs Too Much

When the price paid is the mother's health and happiness. The father doesn't realize as he romps with the child what years of wifely suffering must be set against the baby's laughter.

Chronic invalidism is a high price to pay for the painful joy of maternity, yet it is at such a cost that many a woman becomes a mother. Such a price is too much because it is more than nature asks. By the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription maternity is made practically painless, and a quick convalescence is assured in almost every case.

$500 Reward for Woman Who Cannot be Cured.

The proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"There are thousands of sick women dragging out a weary, miserable existence, who would be well and happy did they but have my experience with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. Annie Lenman, Lady Commander Star, Atlanta, Ga. "Four years ago I was nearly dead with inflammation and ulceration. I endured daily untold agony, and life was a burden to me. I had used medicines internally and externally until I had made up my mind that I was going to die. I took patience and perseverance for I was in a bad condition, and had to use your medicine for nearly four months before I was cured, but what a change it brought! From despair to happiness from misery to the delightful, exhilarating feeling that only health brings. I would not change back for a thousand dollars. Your 'Favorite Prescription' is a grand medicine. I wish every sick woman would only try it and be convinced."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss; therefore, accept no substitute. Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate the bowels.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Mayor.

We are authorized to announce the name of Dr. Geo. G. Graessle as a candidate for Mayor subject to the republican primary to be held Oct. 5.

We are authorized to announce the name of Wm. J. Durham as a candidate for Mayor subject to the republican primary, Oct. 5.

For City Clerk.

We are authorized to announce the name of Fred Everback as a candidate for City Clerk subject to the republican primary, Oct. 5.

For Councilman.

We are authorized to announce the name of Henry P. Miller as a candidate for councilman-at-large, subject to the republican primary, Oct. 5.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARY.

Notice is hereby given to the republicans of the city of Seymour that a primary election will be held in this city on Thursday, Oct. 5, 1905 for the purpose of nominating candidates for city officers as follows:

For Mayor.

For City Clerk.

For City Treasurer.

Two Councilmen at large and one councilman from each of the five wards of the city.

The polls will be open from 1 p. m. until 8 p. m.

All persons expecting to be candidates before this primary must file their names with the chairman on or before Saturday, September 30.

By order of the committee,

W. H. BURLICK, Chairman,
H. C. DANNETTEL, Secy.

BRYAN was given a new boom at Chicago this week and is in a fair way to be nominated for president again. He can force his nomination if he so desires, but there are some of the Parker crowd who prefer most any one else.

TODAY Fred Everback announces as a candidate for city clerk to succeed himself. Mr. Everback is well known throughout the city and is popular with the people generally. He is industrious, capable and trustworthy and has the full confidence of all. He is a most efficient city clerk and is courteous and accommodating to every one.

IN THIS issue Henry P. Miller announces as a candidate for councilman-at-large subject to the republican primary. Mr. Miller has served in the council many years being one of the members from the Fourth ward. He has been faithful to the interests of the city and his re-election time after time is sufficient proof that his services have been appreciated. His long experience in the council has given him a broad knowledge of the city's affairs and makes him a useful member of that body.

Sandy Bottom.

The next attraction at the Opera house will be John Crittenden Webb's beautiful story of backwoods folks in the "Sandy Bottom" country in southeastern Arkansas amid the hills and vales of probably the most home-like region of that part of the United States. Appears here Tuesday September 19.

MARRIED

MURPHY-WOLFF.

Sanford Murphy, of this city, and Miss Lillian E. Wolff, formerly of Terre Haute, were married today at their newly furnished home in this city on West Fourth street. The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. W. D. Bartle, of Sheridan. Mr. Murphy is the prosecuting attorney of this judicial circuit and has a host of friends. His bride is an accomplished young woman and is held in high esteem by all who know her. Miss Bertha Wolff, of Terre Haute, sister of the bride, and Miss Bertha Bartle, her cousin, were here for the wedding.

DIED.

BRADBURY.—Edward Bradbury, age 88 years died at one o'clock this afternoon at the home of his son, John Bradbury on east Third street. His death was brought on by general debility and old age after being confined to his bed for a long time. Two sons survive him. Definite arrangements as to the funeral services will be announced later. The remains will be taken to Reddington for burial.

State Fair Passengers.

The Pennsylvania has taken a great crowd of people to Indianapolis this week on account of the State Fair. Agent Wray and his assistants had sold up to noon today 334 tickets. 61 were sold this morning. This does not include those who were transferred here from the B. & O. and the S. I.

DAN PATCH

Fails To Lower His Record At State Fair.

Dan Patch, the swiftest pacer in the world, having a record of 1:56, failed to lower his record in an exhibition mile at the State Fair Wednesday. His time was 2:00. This was the fastest mile made on the Indianapolis track.

As many as 30,000 people witnessed this great son of Joe Patchen, paced by two running mates, give this splendid exhibition of his remarkable speed. It was an excited and enthusiastic throng and when the horse came under the wire and the time was posted the cheering was tremendous and continued until the horse was off the track.

Dan Patch is an Indiana horse and the people of the state are proud of him. The state fair management acted wisely in securing him as a special feature.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

- REVENGE -

Once upon a time there was a crab and a turtle who took to living together. The turtle was master and the crab was servant, and when Crabbe didn't do things exactly to suit Mr. Turtle he got a good beating.

One morning the turtle came to his breakfast in a bad humor. "Are these worms," he shouted, "or are they rubber bands such as the men people put around packages?" And he beat Crabbe with some of the tough breakfast which had been provided.

The little crab took his beating so meekly that the turtle might well have been frightened, but he wasn't. He went grumbling off to sit with some other old fat turtles on the log where they had their club and grumbled about the misdoing of everybody. Crabbe wasted no time. He scrambled out of the water and up to a little cottage which stood on the bank. "What was that I heard the man say?" he muttered to himself. "That he liked turtle soup! Ah, my cruel master, I'll soon see you in the soup!"

Five minutes later Crabbe was scrambling down to the bank with a man following him. "He'll make a rich soup," the little crab was saying. "I've kept him fat, grubbing for worms all summer."

WHERE THEY HAD THEIR CLUB.

The man picked up old Mr. Turtle without the least trouble and put him in a basket. Then he looked at the little crab. "What do you get out of this?" he asked.

"Me?" said the crab. "Oh, I get nothing except my revenge—unless you want to give me something for it," and he looked hopeful.

"I will," returned the man thoughtfully. "I want to give you a nice warm home. I'm very fond of deviled crab." And that heartless man walked off chuckling. But the crab had his revenge, which paid as well as revenge generally does.—Atlanta Constitution.

Lazy Germ In New Orleans.

Dr. Arnold Pfaff, of the national bureau of education, who believes that laziness among school children is caused by a germ, has found specimens of the germ in school children of New Orleans and is now looking for a cure for the disease. The blood of schoolboys which was analyzed by Dr. Pfaff was drawn from their ears. He selected those who seemed chronically disinclined to study. After an analysis he assured the teachers that the boys were not responsible for their condition, but were the victims of a disease. On this hypothesis the boys were allowed to get off easily on their final examination. Dr. Pfaff had all the boys under treatment and assured their teachers that they would be cured before the next term began.

Successful Smoke Consumer.

A German firm has patented a system for consuming smoke and preventing the wasting of coal which has been tested at the experimental station of the Bavarian "Revisions Verein" in Munich, where it was found that 72 per cent of the combustible value of soft coal from the Saar district can be utilized when this smoke consumer is used. The director of a rope and cable factory at Frankfurt, Germany, where the system has been in use for some time, reports a minimal development of smoke only when fires are started or replenished; at other times no smoke is visible and the saving of coal amounts to more than 20 per cent.

Meningitis Caused by Inhalation.

Professor Wittenhoffer, who was sent by the German government to St. Louis to study the genesis of cerebro spinal meningitis and the best method of treating it, comes to the conclusion that it is undoubtedly one of the diseases caused by inhalation, which first attacks the tonsils and is conveyed thus through glands to the brain. It only attacks where the glands have become weakened. In all the cases examined by him the tonsils show hypertrophy and are increased in size by inflammation. The professor is of the opinion that the root of the disease is to be found in the insanitary conditions of dwellings.

Turned Up a Dinosaur.

Brazil, Ind., Sept. 14.—Robert Long, who resides north of the city, reports the find of the petrified remains of a prehistoric animal resembling a gigantic lizard, which is probably what is known as a dinosaur. Long reports that the huge petrified animal is about eighteen feet in length and will weigh about eighteen or twenty tons. The animal is incased in the sand and sandstone in a ravine not far from his home, the exact location of which he refuses to divulge.

Boxes to be Numbered.
"The work of inspection of the rural route boxes preparatory to numbering them is going on now," said W. T. McConnell, rural route agent, who is in the city for a few days. "It is the intention to number each box on each rural route. The order from the department concerning the numbering is specific in stipulating that no nonweatherproof or otherwise unfit receptacle for mail shall be numbered. As soon as the inspection is finished and the numbers assigned, each box owner will be informed of his box, with the request that such number be legibly inscribed on the box. When the numbering has been done, mail addressed to the box number will be delivered, whether or not it has the name of the person for whom it is intended."—Washington Herald.

Enjoyed the Trip.
Miss Nettie Hamilton who went with her father, John Hamilton, to Denver to the G. A. R. encampment reports a delightful trip. She says the crowd was said to have been the largest Denver ever entertained. There were delegates from fortythree out of forty-five states. Kansas had the largest and was awarded the prize flag. On Labor Day there was a great parade and some of the old soldiers marched in line then. Next year the encampment will be held at Minneapolis and the old soldiers expect as good a time there as they had at Denver. John Fox and daughter, Miss Clara, also went from this county.

$100 REWARD $100
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by all druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

WE KNOW THE ABC
We know the A B C of the School Suit business.
A Means All Wool
B Means Big Value
C Means Cut Right
We spare no pains to have our school suits as good as it is possible to make them. At $1.50 to $3.00 we have school suits to fit boys from 8 to 15 years of age that are certainly the best suits for the money we know anything about.
A good quality in extra knee pants at 25c and 50c.
An excellent line of SCHOOL SHOES for boys built to give service.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.
Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

FOUL PLAY FEARED

Elkhart Police Believe That
Robert Nodduff
Was Murdered.

HAVE MADE ARRESTS

Two Men Who Were on the Train on Which Nodduff Was Last Seen Alive Are Held.

It is the Theory of the Police That Victim Was the Subject of Persecution.

Elkhart, Ind., Sept. 14.—Elkhart and St. Joseph, Mich., police believe they have established beyond a doubt that Robert Nodduff, whose decomposed body was found in the hydraulic race here Aug. 24, was murdered and have placed Bert Tidy and William Grim under arrest, charged with being responsible for Nodduff's death. He was a passenger on a Big Four excursion train on the night he met death. The train was returning from Marion. At Elkhart a hot-box was discovered and a stop was made on the trestle crossing the race and some time was spent in cooling the hot-box.
Nodduff was seen to step onto the platform and later it was noticed that he had not returned. When the train was between Elkhart, and Niles a search was made for Nodduff, but he could not be found.

Suspicion that Nodduff had fallen into the race at Elkhart was confirmed on the morning of Aug. 28 by the finding of the body floating on the surface. His relatives refused to believe his death was accidental and they began an investigation. From several passengers it was learned that Nod-duff, whose reputation for sobriety, industry and amiability was excellent,
had been made the victim of persecution by Tidy and several companions during the entire trip homeward from Marion. Tidy and his friends were intoxicated, according to the statements of numerous witnesses.
It is the theory of the police that when Nodduff stepped onto the rear platform the persecution by Tidy and his companions was renewed; that Nodduff resisted their taunts, a fight ensued and he was knocked unconscious into the race. He was twenty-three years old.

INVOLUNTARY SERVITUDE

Is the Basis of Charge Made by Two Peru Women.

Indianapolis, Sept. 14.—That they were taken from their English home in tender childhood, brought to this country and for twelve years treated brutally while being forced to learn the stunts of acrobats, is alleged by Alice Welch and her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Berry, now residents of Peru, Ind., in a complaint filed through John
W. Kern against Robert Hobson, sr., Arthur Hobson and Robert Hobson, jr., known as the "Nelson family" of acrobats, now performing at the state fair.
The two women went to the fair grounds and took their brother William, who, it is said, was held through fear, from the management of the acrobatic troupe.

Each of the women demanded a judgment of $25,000 damages. They declare that the elder Hobson held them by force in a state of servitude, and they did not escape from him until Sept. 24, 1903. At that time they were in Fresno, Cal. The two girls had managed to get a little money, and, without extra clothing, escaped in the night. Afterward they obtained employment with other troupes, and one of the sisters has since married.
They now live in Peru. During the time they were with the "Nelsons" they received no pay for their services, they say.

Fatal Wreck in Yards.

Marion, Ind., Sept. 14.—Two men were killed, one other was fatally injured and several were badly hurt in a collision in the Big Four yards here.
A work train carrying forty men struck a box-car on the main line and the forward car of the work train on which the workmen were seated and standing was completely telescoped with the box-car. The dead are:
James Ishmael, twenty-six years old, laborer; Walter Smith, twenty-five years old. The seriously injured: Oscar Ishmael, brother of James, crushed beneath cars, thought to be fatally injured; Will Numan, section foreman, jumped from car, internal injuries, condition serious.

Sensational Allegation.

Vincennes, Ind., Sept. 14.—Ex-Trustee Win S. Lane has filed a damage suit in the Knox circuit court for $10,000 against Dr. Royce Davis of Decker, charging him with alienating the affections of his wife and ruining his home. He alleges that Dr. Davis while visiting his home as a family physician won the affections of Mrs.
Lane. Davis is a prominent doctor in the county and he has a wife and grown daughters.

Young Kentuckian Uses Gun.

Valparaiso, Ind., Sept. 14.—In a quarrel over a girl, Louis Young, aged twenty, of this city, was shot at twice by Charles Metcalf of Danville, Ky., a student at Dodge's telegraph school.
One bullet struck Young, inflicting a slight wound. Metcalf escaped and is still at large.

SEEING AMERICA.

Wonderful Scenic Trip Across Rocky Mountains to Oregon Exposition.

In certain respects the excursions to the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition, Portland, Oregon, via Pennsylvania Lines, beginning May 2nd and continuing through the summer, offer advantages never before presented to Exposition visitors. The trip to the Oregon Exposition, in addition to the attractiveness of the extensive exhibits, includes the journey through the scenic wonderland of the Rocky Mountains and the Cascade Range, and what American has not looked forward from the days of the geography class in school to the time when those great sights should be seen in reality? The time was never so favorable as now. The trip may be made less expensive than ever. For only a light difference in fare tourists may extend their trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles.
The return trip may be made over a different route, enabling travelers to view much more of the west. For full particulars, fares, dates of special excursions to Portland on account of conventions, through time and passenger service apply to ticket agent of Pennsylvania lines.

No Hay Fever; No Asthma;

Atlantic City, Cape May and Eight Other Resorts.

The annual excursion to the seashore via Pennsylvania Lines will be run Thursday August 17th, a convenient date for leaving business, and when the season at the ocean resorts is at its height. For this excursion tickets will be sold to nine of the most popular watering places on the Atlantic Coast, including Atlantic City, Cape May, Angiers, Avalon, Holly Beach, Ocean City, Sea Isle
City, Wildwood, all on the Jersey Coast; and Rehoboth, Delaware.

The round trip fare to any of the resorts named will be $15.00 from Seymour. Fares from other ticket stations on Pennsylvania Lines will be proportionately low.

Tickets will be good returning within two days, permitting more than a week enjoyable stay at the seashore.

Excursion tickets include stop-over at Philadelphia on return trip, if deposited with ticket agent at Broad Street Station.

For full particulars about the excursion, special through train service and advance reservation of sleeping car berths, apply to
